AN ALABAMA STATE PARK

RICKWOOD CAVERNS STATE PARK

The Caverns

Experience the thrill of Rickwood's miracle mile of underground caverns. These magnificent passages and beautifully lighted rooms are accented with thousands of sparkling white limestone formations. The caverns themselves were water-formed during the Mississippian period over 260 million years ago. To this day, large portions of Rickwood Caverns are still considered active "living formations." Yes, active indeed, as sparkling water droplets constantly drip from stalactite to stalagmite or silently flow across the faces of colorful live dripstone formations in their age-long growing process which began over 100 million years ago. YES!!! At Rickwood Caverns the secrets of the earth actually unfold before your eyes.

It's hard to believe the cave area itself was once an ocean bed. Bits of shell as well as fossils of marine life are clearly visible along the cavern ceiling and walls to attest to this amazing fact. Many questions will be aroused during your guided tour of the "Miracle Mile" at Rickwood.

The photographic opportunities are exceptional in the cavern so don't forget your camera.

The Swimming Pool

There is no better way to beat the summer heat than by taking a dip in Rickwood's olympic size swimming pool. Fed by the spring water from within the cave, the pool is always cool and refreshing. The pool is a popular place for all ages and approved swimwear is required. The pool is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily during the summer season, which kicks off every Memorial Day weekend.

The Pavilion and Picnic Areas

Rickwood's picnic area is complete with tables, grills, and plenty of shade trees. Hiking trails and playgrounds are also available. Two large pavilions provide excellent shelter for your next family outing or group meeting. Call the park office to reserve a pavilion for your next special day.

The Campground

Rickwood Caverns State Park provides both primitive and modern campsites. You will find 13 modern campsites with electricity and water hookups for both RV's and motor homes, with no maximum size limitations. The facility also offers restrooms, seasonal showers and a dump station.
